“‘On Beauty’ is, quite simply, a masterful example of how cinema can serve as a humanizing force in the world. We need films like this. We can’t afford to lose them.”

— Matt Fagerholm | RogerEbert.com

“It’s very inspiring to see a shift in perspective and using art to remind people that these kids should not be defined by their diseases and that they are beautiful human beings first and foremost.”

— Nicole Oran | MedCity News

“The two-minute trailer already made me realize how narrow my own standards of beauty are, even when it comes to seemingly innocuous details.”

— Renata Certo-Ware | Bustle

“Los Angeles is the capital of cookie-cutter beauty. But a new documentary film opening here Friday is setting out to transform our perceptions.”

— Booth Moore | LA Times

“I am beautiful, and I need to start believing it. It doesn’t matter who looks at me funny or who tells me that I’m not beautiful because I am.”

— Sarah Kanney interview with Cosmopolitan

“‘On Beauty’ has a serious message, but it’s presented in the most uplifting way possible.”

— Kara Corridan | Parents Magazine

“This is to break down barriers. It really starts that dialogue about diversity, about inclusion, about beauty, and about self-acceptance.”

— Rick Guidotti interview with People magazine

“The most amazing thing about beauty is it is subjective and not dictated. It is everywhere and it is gloriously unexpected if you let it be.”

— Joanna Rudnick interview with L’Etage Magazine

“It’s about shifting and changing mindsets about people who are different and the way they see or perceive them.”

— Jayne Waithera interview with Global Citizen
